Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Saturday 03 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
A clear, chilly night but cloudier in north and west.

This Evening and Tonight:
Most places dry this evening with some late sunshine. Much of Scotland dry and clear overnight, some frost and fog for some inland parts. Clouding over and becoming windy across the far north and west.

Sunday:
Mostly dry in the morning, some brightness in the east. Clouding over in the afternoon with a little rain spreading southeast for a time. Wintry showers following on across north.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Cold, bright with frequent snow or hail showers in the north, and along exposed coastal districts elsewhere. Central, southern areas often dry. Chance of some widespread rain or snow Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.